Agro-Food Tech Expo
From Innovation to Action

A Multidisplinary Exhibition
Dozens of exhibitirs from Israel and around the world.

Exhibition of leading industries, start-ups, innovations, developments, research facilities, solutions and entrepreneurship.

The AGRO-FOODTECH exhibition at the Food Security Summit - The Next Step.
Presenting the NEXT GENERATION in promoting future food development and sustainable agriculture.

The exhibition will be visited by delegations from around the world who are interested in purchasing products, or assisting in the rapid development of technologies, and methods to strengthen the nutritional independence of their countries and prepare to provide an effective response to the populations of the countries they represent.

Governmental and state bodies as well as investors, foundations, and international organizations interested in finding effective and practical solutions in the broad world of products, raw materials, food, and agriculture, related to Food Security.

The exhibition will allow small, medium, and large industries, as well as start-ups, research institutions, and independent developers, to promote, advance, and transform early ideas and developments into the production and marketing stages.

The understanding that future food development processes must advance to the stage of action will attract investors and entrepreneurs and enhance the realization of the urgency and the immediate need to act.

The exhibition will provide a broad platform for the creation of mergers, partnerships, and ventures.
From start-up to production, from idea to implementation, from development to operation, all towards advancing the global transition to sustainable food systems.
